THIRD PARTY IN POLITICAL ARENA

CLAIM PLANS FOR INTENSIVE DRIVE OVER COUNTRY

LA FOLLETTE BACKERS WORK FROM CHICAGO

Nelson of Wisconsin, Chairman of House Progressive Bloc, Says Campaign Will Be Carried to Every State in Union.

Cleveland.—A whirlwind of progressive activity, expected to bring the ideas of Senator Robert M. La Follette before every voter before the November elections, was planned here.

With La Follette definitely pledged to run and indorsed by the Conference for Progressive Political action, Representative John M. Nelson of Wisconsin, chairman of the progressive bloc in the house, held an extensive conference with leaders and mapped out the general lines of the campaign.

Headquarters of the national drive will be opened in Chicago by Nelson. The campaign will be carried on in every state in the union.

The action of indorsing La Follette was unanimous on the part of the 1,000 delegates. The resolution carrying the indorsement provided for the formation of a third party after the November elections.

The socialist convention here appointed a committee of fifteen to consider indorsement of La Follette and the conference.

The Socialists are planning to do for Senator La Follette on the national ticket what they did for him on the state ticket in Wisconsin two years ago when they refused to nominate a candidate to oppose him in the race for the United States senate.

The Sacialist convention plans to give La Follette its endorsement and pledge him its votes. Thus, without actually tacking the Socialist label upon him, the party virtually makes him its nominee.

Some opposition is expected to meet the proposition to "amalgamate" the Socialist party with the farm-labor groups, union labor groups, single taxers, proletariat groups, "youth movers" and other radical outfits represented at the Conference of Progressive Political Action.

San Francisco.—Admirers of Robert M. La Follette met here and formed a California La Follette league, the purpose of which, according to the president, is to "put La Follette electors on the ticket."

LINE OF JAPANESE PRINCES PASSED WITH MATSUKATA

Tokyo.—When Prince Masayoshi Matsukata died, his passing marked the close of a distinct period in Japanese history, for he was the last of that small and picturesque group of ancients who led in the restoration of the emperor to power and the building of modern Japan. He was a survivor from feudal times in Japan, when a small contingent of leaders, through the eminence of their gifts and the value of their services to the state, seized power and held it without constitutional warrant long after their share in actual government was finished. They became the advisers closest to the throne.

The old genro, and Matsukata, saw Japan move from a feudal nation to the front rank of modern powers. Matsukata in his youth fought as a Japanese samurai, armed with a long spear, in the battles which preceded the overthrow of the Shogun and the re-establishment of the mikado as the only ruler of Japan.

DATE SET FOR NOTIFYING COOLIDGE AND DAWES

Washington. — President Coolidge will be notified of his nomination by the Cleveland convention at 8 o'clock on the night of July 24, in Continental Memorial hall here. The date for the notification of Charles G. Dawes, vice-president candidate, was advanced from July 31, as previously announced to July 29. Dawes will be notified at his home in Evanston, Ill.

Frank W. Mondell, chairman of the committee on notification and permanent chairman of the Cleveland convention, will make the speech of notification for President Coolidge.

Farm Credit Bank Loans

Washington.—Federal intermediate credit banks have made loans aggregating $76,637,515 to the farmers of the country in slightly less than one year since the new credit system was organized. Up to May 1, $27,697,757 of the loans had been repaid, showing that $48,943,758 of government money is being used on the farmers to finance current crops of livestock production and marketing.

DEADLOCK AFTER WEEK OF BALLOTS

BOURBON CONVENTION BREAKS ALL ENDURANCE TESTS

SEVENTY-SEVEN VOTES TAKEN FIRST SIX DAYS

Second Week of Meeting Begins With No Sign of a Break or Compromise. —McAdoo Declares Intention of Staying in the Fight.

New York.—Analysis of the 77th ballot, the last one taken Saturday at the Democratic national convention, demonstrates the dominant strength of William G. McAdoo and the hopeless condition of the favorite sons, David L. Rockwell, manager for McAdoo, declared. Rockwell also offered figures meant to show his belief that McAdoo could win the election in November.

To illustrate the preponderance of McAdoo's support, Rockwell cited the fact that on the 77th ballot his candidate received votes from forty-three of the forty-eight states and six territories which have delegations at the convention.

Rockwell stressed McAdoo's strength in states which have been Democratic all or part of the time since 1884. The figures demonstrate, he said, that it would be "bordering on folly for the Democratic party to nominate any one of the five favorite sons.

Side Lights on First Week

Monday

Franklin D. Roosevelt called for roll call of states and first ballot began at 10:41.

Missouri had to be polled, a delegate objecting to casting state's vote under unit rule, which would give McAdoo a total of 36. Poll resulted: McAdoo 25, John W. Davis 3; present and not voting 8.

Through the first six ballots Governor Smith showed slight but consistent gain, rising from 241 to 261 on sixth

Michigan first state to desert a native son. On eighth her vote changed from 30 for Ferris to 8 for Smith, 5 for McAdoo, 5 for Underwood, others scattered in singles.

California stood solid, 26 for McAdoo, throughout the fifteen ballots.

Tuesday

On the first ballot, the 16th, two favorite sons were dropped. New Hamshire let go of Governor Brown and scattered its votes to: Smith 4, McAdoo 3, Wash 1. Mississippi dropped Pat Harrison.

On the seventeenth ballot Smith picked up five Connecticut votes, also two from Michigan. On this ballot McAdoo showed his first loss, dropping from 478 to 471½.

Florida delegation demanded poll on seventeenth ballot. The result was 11 for McAdoo, 1 for Smith. McAdoo carried state primary by 2 to 1 and delegation insisted to adhering to unit rule. Walsh ruled that under the Florida statute the obligation of unit rule had passed.

In the eighteenth Cordell Hull emerged with 20 votes.

Twentieth ballot brought a vote each for three newcomers, Mayor Dever of Chicago, Senator Hitchcock, Omaha newspaper man, and Newton D. Barker.

At 2 o'clock John W. Davis of West Virginia, who started with 60 on the 16th ballot had 96 on the 20th.

Mrs. Carol Miller of Astoria, Or., was the first woman to receive a vote. She got a half a vote in the 21st.

Nebraska deserted Governor Bryan in the 21st and gave McAdoo 7.

On the 24th Atlee Pomerene emerged as a candidate with 1 vote.

At 4:47 the convention recessed until 8 p. m.

Returning after a dinner hour recess, the convention took its 25th ballot and showed no material changes. McAdoo slipped back 2 votes to 436½. Smith picked up a half vote, giving him 398½. Davis dropped 3½ votes.

Oklahoma broke from its solid McAdoo lineup on the 26th ballot, when it polled a special vote of 11 for Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma and 9 for McAdoo.

Smith forces in the 27th picked up 5 Wyoming votes which had previously gone to Walsh, and seized upon this to treat the convention to a five-minute demonstration.

Convention adjourned at 10:40 until 9:30 a. m.

DEMOCRATS NOMINATE DAVIS AND BRYAN

The deed is done and cannot be undone. It's all over but the expense account which will be clear-up as the smoke and fumes of battle blow over.

The country is surprised at the news of the Democratic nomination of John W. Davis as standard bearer in the coming campaign. Probably no one is more able to tell the voters of this man than the big men of his own political party, and here we quote:

Senator Burton, of Montana said: "The convention might as well nominate J. Pierpont Morgan himself."

William Jennings Bryan in speaking of Mr. Davis before the convention.

"When one makes a choice he is supposed to choose the things that go with it. One of the accessories of intimate association with big corporations is retirement from politics. If J. Pierpont Morgan were suing an average man, no court would permit Mr. Davis to serve on the jury, even though he had withdrawn from the legal connection with the Morgan firm just before the trial began.

"Why should conventions subject the masses to a risk no lawyer would permit his client to take? Mr. Davis is a fine man, but in the employment of J. Pierpont Morgan. La Follette will take more votes from Davis than he will from the Republicans. You are throwing Democratic chances to the wind in voting for Davis."

CONG. FREE HOME MONDAY

Congressman Arthur M. Free and family expect to arrive in San Jose Monday to spend the remainder of the summer. An interesting incident is reported of his son Lloyd which occurred in May. Mr. Free had an engagement to deliver an illustrated lecture on California before the Trestle Board Club of Washington, D. C.

A few hours before the time set for the lecture, Mr. Free was called to a conference on the Immigration Bill. As he is a member of the Immigration Committee of the House of Representatives, he felt he must attend the conference and yet he hated to disappoint the Club, which was to hold a special meeting, to hear the lecture on California. Mr. Free's son, Lloyd, a high school boy of fifteen years, had usually operated the baloptican which projected the California pictures while his father lectured. Mr. Free got an idea. He called his son on the phone and asked him to give the lecture in his stead. The boy consented, and Gerald, a thirteen year old son of Mr. Free, was drafted to operate the baloptican.

At the appointed hour the boys appeared at the Club. The members wondered at the youthful appearance of the California Congressman, but after an explanation Lloyd proceeded with the lecture. Today one of the cherished keepsakes of the Free family is a copy of a very enthusiastic resolution of the Club certifying to the ability of Lloyd Free as a lecturer on California.

Father Cutting 90

Yesterday Mr. C. D. Cutting celebrated his ninetieth birthday. All of his five sons were present during the day to wish him many happy returns of the day. Altho "Father" Cutting has had several sick spells during the last years, he is usually quite "up and coming", making regular trips down town and attending church quite regularly. The Press extends the good wishes of the community for his continued good health.

Mrs. Ben Austin and daughter, Miss Marion, will leave Wednesday evening, July 16, for Simcoe, Ontario, their former home, for a visit with relatives.

GRANGE AFTER ARGENTINIANS, NOT FIRPO

Orchard City Hold an Interesting Session

Owing to the busy season in fruit there was a rather light attendance at the grange Tuesday evening. Those present, however, enjoyed an interesting program. Mrs. Rae read a splendid paper on Domestic Science by Adelphia Weisendanger published in the California Countryman. Miss Bernice Bogart gave a fine selections on the violin accompanied by Miss Miriam Skiff at the piano.

Mr. Rae gave a very interesting talk on salesmanship and distribution of products. He believed that one of the greatest causes of economic wrong was that we were overstocked with salesmen; that under proper regulation of a distributive system our products could be placed with the consumers at a great saving of time and expense. When shoes are from $5 to $15 per pair and the farmer can not get enough for a hide to pay him for skinning an animal, there is something wrong in Denmark. When consumers pay from 15 cents to 40 cents per lb. for prunes and the prune grower only gets from 2 to 6 cents per lb. there is something wrong and a good deal nearer home than Denmark.

Mr. Couk also spoke very forcefully along the same line and urged growers to insist on knowing what was going on in the selling and handling of their products, that expenses might be kept down to a reasonable point.

Stanley Smith talked on oak fungus and the enormous damages done to the orchards by it, reducing the vitality of trees and finally killing many of them.

Nearly all kinds of trees are subject to its attacks, olives and our native black walnuts being notable exceptions. It has been hoped the apan pear would prove immune as a stock for pear trees, but experience has blasted that hope. There is no known artificial cure for this disease.

Our Argentine aunts—or ants—received the respects of the grange. We were told to give them plenty of syrup but be sure and have a little arsenic in it. A special bulletin is issued by the Agricultural College at Berkeley, giving full particulars for the preparation of this poison. It was also stated that some of the drug stores in San Jose kept the preparation ready put up under the name of Argentine Ant Poison. This poison is carried to the nests of the ants and fed to the queens and the young slowly but surely killing off the whole colony. The directions are to place a piece of sponge or packing material in a tin can and then pour a little of the poison over it. There should be a cover to prevent excessive evaporation and holes made for the ants to enter. These cans are to be placed wherever the ants form their lines of march outside. 8 to 12 such cans put about the yard, especially at the base of trees where they come and go, will in the course of a few months reduce their numbers so they will give but little trouble. The syrup should be renewed in the cans every two to six months, depending on the amount used. If people will persevere in the use of this ant poison they can be nearly free from the nuisance.

The Argentine ant soon leaves to avoid any poison that kills them quickly but this slow method seems to be beyond their understanding. It is also well to use the ant powder, to be gotten at the stores, in the house. This stops them for the time being but must be renewed every few days.

H. G. Keesling gave a short talk on a recent visit to Santa Rosa. Of the orchards, he said, some of them, where not well cared for, seemed to be suffering from the drought, while others looked well. Vineyards were also promising good crops.

KENNEDY-FARLEY CLOSE BIG DEAL

"Business is good" is the word from the Partners who just last Thursday put the finishing touches on a transaction they have been working on for some months. Mr. S. G. Rodeck no longer has to make daily trips to assist in the proper working of the 311 acre ranch at Coyote, as he i snow the proud possessor of a new six-story reinforced concrete apartment house as the result of a trade made thru the office of Kennedy & Farley.

Ben Rodeck, who has been on the ranch for the last few years, is to remain as superintendent for the new owners. They are surely fortunate in securing one so capable, it's a real proposition, but Ben can handle it.

This deal, considering the values, is one of the largest ever handled by a local concern, and we feel that congratulations are in order. Let's hope that business continues good.

HIGBIE STUDIOS OPENED THIS WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Higbie have opened the 'Higbie Studios" in the old Parhurst home at 518 South Second Street, San Jose.

The lower floor has been arranged for offices and work rooms, with reception room and a "Gift Shop" which Mrs. Higbie will conduct in addition to her interior decorating work.

Mr. Higbie is one of the very successful architects of the Valley and was the designer of our beautiful library building, as most of our readers know.

Mrs. Higbie has been equally successful in her line and during the winter while in New York, canvassed the markets for drapery materials and new designs. She also acquired an original and delightful collection of things for her shop, which include a distinctive line of Spanish, Italian and South American basketry, desirable gift merchandise from Porto Rico, the Balkan States, and other parts of the world.

She has inaugurated a hospital and bon voyage department, where people wishing to remember sick or departing friends may make selections or leave orders and the gift will be delivered.

This service is in lieu of candy and flowers which are not always most desirable. Mrs. Higbie states that her shop includes articles to meet every pocketbook.

CAMPBELL GETS MAIL ON FIRST AIR TRIP

Mrs. Mary Jacobs of Campbell received a letter by the first airplane mail that arrived in San Francisco.

A number of inquiries have been made regarding air mail stamps. While there are special stamps they are not necessary only the required amount of postage, and the envelope very plainly marked "via Air Mail."

The rate is 8 cents an ounce or fraction thereof for each zone. These are San Francisco to Cheyenne Wyo., Cheyenne to Chicago, Chicago to New York, making 24 cents for the complete journey.

The mail leaves San Francisco at 6 a. m., so that afternon mail from here will make connections.

Mrs. Lillian Olds, who has been staying with Mrs. Julia Sharpless for some weeks left Saturday for St. Paul for an indefinite stay. That is her formr home and her son Clifton and family are still living there.

"Kitchen Cabinet"

The "kitchen cabinet" was a name given to a group of political advisers of President Jackson. They occupied no official positions, but were consulted by the president as private citizens. The principal members of this cabinet were Amos Kendall, William B. Lewis, Isaac Hill, Duff Green and Francis P. Blair. It was the custom of the unofficial advisers, whenever they called upon the president, to go in by the back door to avoid observation—hence the sobriquet of "kitchen cabinet," which is said to have originated among the Whigs.—Kansas City Star.

FORD CAR NUMBER TEN MILLION TO MAKE COAST-TO-COAST TOUR

In celebration of having attained a 10,000,000 production record, the San Francisco Branch of the Ford Motor Company announces that Ford Car No. 10,000,000 will make a coast-to-coast trip as signifying the nation-wide popularity of the Ford car and its appeal to every class of driver.

The car was shipped to New York about the middle of June, and leaving there was to be driven across the country to San Francisco. The Lincoln highway was selected as the official route of travel and stops were to be made at most all the towns along the line. Frank Kulick, who years ago attained fame and broke many records as the pilot of Ford racing cars, will be at the wheel of the ten-millionth Ford, during the trans-continental trip.

The Company was among the first to adopt the unit power plant and the left hand drive control, and it was the originator of such fundamental principles as the removable cylinder head, three-point motor suspensions and torque tube drive, all incorporated in the Model "T" and which have since been generally adopted in the automotive industry.

"The correctness of these basic features has been strikingly proven by the fact that in the entire ten-million production, while improvements have constantly been made, there never has been any deviation from the original principles of the Model 'T'," remarks Goodwin, local Ford Manager.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF BOOSTING

It does not require a very good memory to recall the- time when men shied at the word psychology.

Now it rolls off the tongue of the average after-dinner speaker without any apparent effort on the part of the speaker.

Fifteen years ago it was regarded as something that should be discussed only by the very learned and as a fit subject for college and university study.

But today the man in the street speaks of psychology fluently and never acts as if he had said or done anything out of the ordinary.

The dictionary says that psychology is the science of mind.

And we hear every day about the psychology of this, that and the other thing.

Most of all, perhaps, in everyday use, psychology is connected with boosting and knocking.

Reduced to its simplest terms, the psychology of knocking is the constant reiteration of the same complaint about any given subject that creates a state of mind among the people which leads them to accept it as "Gospel."

The same holds true with respect to boosting. Incessant and tireless boosting eventually causes optimistic views to prevail.

Most anything within reason is possible through right thinking and right talking. We can produce the proper mental attitude with optimistic talk.

What has been done elsewhere can be done in Campbell. We have the natural and inherent resources needed to build a thriving and prosperous community.

Every resident of Campbell. should begin telling his neighbors and friends about the splendid attributes of his home community.

Then we will begin to see results.

There may be some who will not want to indulge in this practice; whose mind has been working in the pulling backward groove so long that it will not function in any other direction.

For this reason, the responsibility rests all the more heavily on those who want to go forward.

If the people of Campbell will set their minds and hearts to the job, it can be done.

THE REAL CITIZEN

We believe that the tendency of educators to do away with many old forms of school teaching is in principle correct. It is now said that a child does not want to "learn" its lesson. Instead, he is now "doing" his lesson. In other words, as a matter of theory and practice, the child learns by doing instead of all reading. Vocatoinal training is thought by many to be the means of teaching the various trades. While this is partly true, the objective of such a system of education is to develop in the pupil not only the art of mechanical construction, but in order that he may know the joy of making something—a something of his own creation. The thing—whether a bird house, a mould, a dress, or what not—is his. Didn't he make it? Yes, and it will stick with him all his life. He has learned by doing, and he has done by learning.

It is the same way with citizenship. Citizenship does not consist of cramming the constitution down people's throats. Americanization—a much used word—means assimilation, and assimilation means participation in things American, and in American ideals and traditions. Foreigners learn to be Americans, not by parrot-like recitation of the preamble to the Constitution, but by actually joining hands in the upbuilding of the nation's institutions and the preservation and utilization of its resources. What we want to see is people experiencing citizenship, not merely learning about it. It is all well and good that the foreigner, or the native born, should stand up and sing the "Star Spangled Banner" and salute the flag, but we can't exactly tell by such mere form just what is in his heart. But when he openly works for the betterment of his community, and when he is given things to do for the common good, and does them, it is then that we begin to know that he is a citizen. It is then that he gets the spirit of America and has the "belonging" feeling. This gives him a richer, fuller and more abundant life and tends to make him a better man and better citizen.

STEREOTYPED STATESMANSHIP

Usually a man in public life gets about as much credit as he deserves, whether on the right or left hand side of the ledger. Many of the great works of statesmanship have been performed by a medium salaried expert in the back office, while the figure head office holder gets the glory. We are very much inclined to welcome home with a parade, floating banners and a brass band, the fellow who happened to get his name connected with a measure that was put over through force of circumstance, but with which the idolized hero had little, if anything, to do; while those who really conceived and worked the matter out to the finished creation are lost and forgotten amid the maze of popular acclaim for the steotyped statesman who monopolizes all claims to its originality.

"THE vogue of the boyish collar, dresses with buttons and more buttons, the enthusiasm over lace in the new mode, the return of tiers and drawn-work—the fresh notes that make the new clothes that people bring back from Paris so captivating."

Easiest Pattern to Use

"No other pattern has a service that shows you not only just what each piece is, but every single step in putting your dress together as a professional would. Nothing is left to chance. That is one reason why clothes made with the Deltor look like imported things."

"In spite of the fact that half the charm of French clothes depends on their perfect finish and ingenious ways of trimming, ordinary patterns practically ignore this all-important service. Only the Deltor service shows you each tiny but essential detail of finishing your frock."

Modern Banking and How it Has Changed From Pre-War Days

III

THE modern bank, however does not confine its services for the public to using its windows to call attention to its business; or by maintaining an "information" desk for their assistance and help; it goes further and so far as possible takes an active, and educational interest in what the community is doing; thus the Humboldt Bank in San Francisco employs a special person to attract to its establishment the Boy Scouts of the city.

The boys have a representative of the bank to help them in all their movements, and projects. He not only encourages them to open accounts with the bank, but he leads them in "hikes," attends their meetings, and goes on their picnics, or marches with them in processions; in a word he is their leader and guide.

The advantage, so far as the scouts are concerned, to be derived from their banker friend's interest in their work and play is selfevident, but perhaps every one will not at first grasp what the advantage to the bank may be by its active connection with their organization. The amount that the boys can deposit of course is small, individually, and of itself might hardly pay for the expense and trouble that the bank's interest entails, but there is an educational side to the matter, which may at first escape attention. The boys of today are the men of tomorrow, and the business men, the mechanics, the professional men, and as such they are the heavy depositors of tomorrow, and the work that the bank is doing today, is a preparation for that tomorrow far more than it is a profit for today.

And just there lies the very root, the very essence of the new system of banking. The old time banker only sought to secure what was there today to take; the banker of the present looks into the future, he realizes that a bank is for years, he hopes for centuries and that its business should be built up with that fact ever in mind. Naturally if the scouts, as boys learn to keep accounts with the Humboldt they are likely to continue to do so when they have grown to manhood and are business men themselves. They have learnt to look upon the bank as their friend, its employees as their leaders and associates and they go to it for their banking, just as they go home to go to bed.

The boys too as scouts have learnt to save, have learnt as the picture shows, how to bank, and although some may never have large accounts, and others may leave the community and never bank with the institution now helping them, there are sure to be among several hundred or thousand boys of today a number of valuable accounts kept by the men of tomorrow. That is the principle upon which the bank is helping the Boy Scouts.

Likens Modern Life to Piecework in Factory

"Life is getting more and more like piecework in a factory," says Dr. Mary Dunning Rose, president of the Women's Medical society of the state of New York.

"You push on to see if you can't do just a little extra all the time. And there is always that push to do more.

"If you drive a motorcar, and many people do, your nerves are shocked every time you take the wheel.

"Women need more sleep. Eight to ten hours. Some are better off with twelve.

"The fact that so many in New York city eat in restaurants accounts for the fact that our death rate is lower than elsewhere in the state. People don't order or eat more than they need in a restaurant. Operated under the board of health, public places must have fresh, good food, not the spoiled products they sold 20 years ago."

Doctor Rose recommends her own profession as a particularly satisfying one for her own sex, since it demands qualifications usually found in women, patience, sympathy and attention to detail—qualifications which will not be wasted in such a career.

"We need more doctors," continued Doctor Rose. "All those I know are busy. Of course, it takes years of preparation, and a business career seems to bring results more quickly."
—Margery Rex, in the New York Journal.

Wet-Weather Product

In Indo-China rice is grown under very different conditions from those in America. In Cochin-China there is no irrigation; the rice is planted at the beginning of the rainy season, and all the necessary water is supplied by the rains that fall continuously during the growing period. The use of seeders and drills is impossible, as the ground is entirely covered with water at seeding time. The rice is planted in little patches and then transplanted when a sufficient maturity is attained. In Tonkin and Annam large tracts of land are being prepared for irrigation and modern methods will be adopted.

To the VOTERS OF THE 27th SENATORIAL DISTRICT:

I hereby announce my candidacy for the position of State Senator from the 27th District of the State of California.

This announcement and my candidacy are on my own initiative and not at the request of friends or any organization whatsoever. I am not an unwilling candidate yielding to pressure from others to enter upon a field of public service.

Having dedicated my life to public service I am desirous of functioning as efficiently as possible, and after nine years of full time service as a volunteer worker particularly along legislative lines I now ask your support for an official position that I may serve you more effectively.

My platform has two broad planks:

1. Inlustrial development of Santa Clara County.
2. Human welfare.

My credentials are my past record.

I cordially invite the support of all individuals and organizations who can endorse my platform.

I thank you.

Advantage in Working for Smaller Concern

For some time past what I may call industrial doctors have been hunting for the cause of business slumps.

"When we find who starts them," Otto Mallery remarked to me, "perhaps we can find a way to prevent it. As you know, depression in one thing at once leads to a decline in others."

These surgeons of trade divide business into three sizes: Those which employ under 21 persons, those which employ from 21 to 100 persons, and so-called big business which employs more than 100.

It seems that if you want to hold a job through bad times you had better work for a small concern, observes Girard in the Philadelphia Inquirer. When a business depression sets in idleness in large industries is relatively far greater than in small ones.

The littlest class, or those employing under 21 persons, discharges relatively much fewer than any other.
